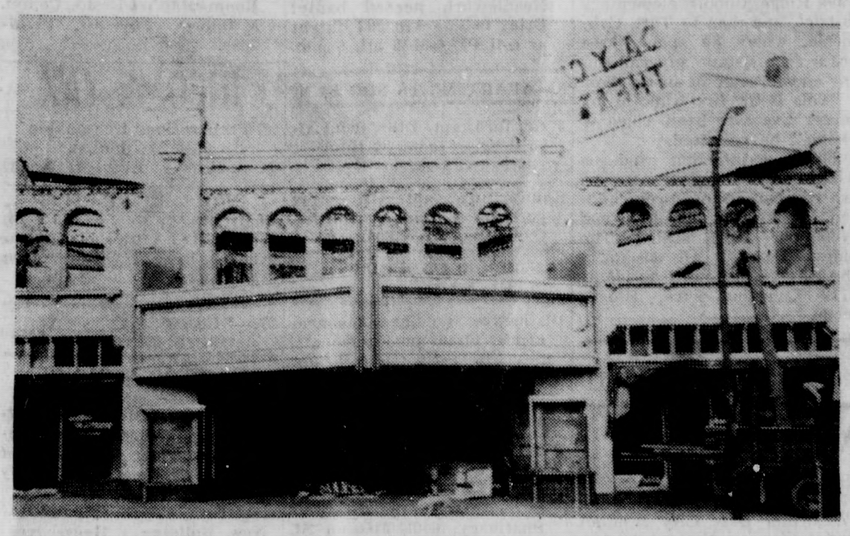
Chamber Joins Sales Tax Fight



CAMERAMAN makes last click of the landmark-like Daly City Theater on Mission street, being demolished to make way for a $500,000 supermarket. Built just before the roaring twenties, the old film house experienced about 25 successful years. Television popularity struck the final blow. Pacific Markets of Oakland have plans for a store covering 15,000 square feet, with adequate parking for 75 cars.

DC School Chief 'Fired' By Board

Henry Z. Weibel, superintendent of Jefferson Elementary school district since 1951, has agreed to resign, as requested by unanimous vote of the board in a closed meeting December 30.

Trustees made their decision public at last week's special meeting, during which they granted Weibel a one-year exten- ntract. He asked for the extension in December after ng to submit his letter f resignation.

Chairman Hartley Appleton, spokesman for the board at both sessions, said the "firing" did not involve any "bitterness." "In fact," he said, "this was more of a mutual agreement."

Lost Confidence

"We (the board) felt that we had lost confidence in the superintendent, and it boiled down actually to a matter of us resigning as a unit or terminating his contract," Appleton said.

The chairman said the one-year extension of contract allows Weibel to make arrangements for another position. The superintendent may stay until June of 1959.

Trustees by law had to notify Weibel before last January 1 he would not be rehired. His four-year contract was to expire this June. Six-months notification is required on rejection or renewal of contract.

Weibel, who today said he was "surprised" by the December decision, immediately asked the board to set up an arbitration board to act in his behalf.

Trustees stood pat, however, because as Appleton stated, "it

Superintendent Comments On His 'Dismissal'

Superintendent H. Z. Weibel today issued the following statement to THE RECORD regarding the school board's decision last week to terminate his duties in June of 1959:

"On January 29 the board of trustees voted a one-year extension to my contract which is to expire on June 30 this year. In return, I was requested to submit a letter of resignation effective June 30, 1959. In this letter I stated I was resigning for personal reasons, that I appreciate having had the opportunity to work in the district, and that the many kindnesses received from the people in the community by me and my family are greatly appreciated.

"The high rate of turnover of school superintendents is a national problem. So much so that the American Association of School Administrators offer the following recommendations as a solution:

"1. Tenure laws for superintendents comparable to tenure

'No Fight' By Weibel, But Others?

A veteran of 29 years in education, School Superintendent H. Z. Weibel today said the school board's decision to oust him was a "surprise" and an arbitrary action.

The 53-year-old administrator said he did not intend to fight the decision, though he had asked for an arbitration board to consider the case. Trustees turned this down.

THE RECORD, however, on reliable authority, has learned that a group of citizens in the Broadmoor-Westlake area intend to launch a protest action on behalf of the superintendent.

"I don't wish to stir up the kind of fuss that befell Supt. James Cherry in South San Francisco (he was fired by the SSF school board)," said Weibel. "The trustees have made a legal decision, of course, so I don't have much to go on."

Weibel said principals of all the JESD schools came in a group to his office last week to "see if they could be of assistance. I explained my feelings to them, and I'm sure they are behind me."

Weibel succeeded James L. Snell as JESD superintendent in 1951, when the district had seven schools and 2950 children. Since then, six more schools have been built and enrollment has almost doubled. Present school population is 5850 youngsters. In 1951 the district employed 191 teachers. Today 214 are members of the certificated staff.

Weibel noted that both of his predecessors here, Snell and Richard Crane, also left the district "somewhat involuntarily." Crane, according to Weibel, was dismissed, while Snell resigned a year before his contract had expired.

Weibel's starting salary in 1951 was $7050. The next year it was upped to $9500, and in 1954, with still a year to go on the 1952 contract, he was given a new four-year contract at $12,000 per year. Last year his pay was hiked to $14,500.

Weibel began his education career as a rural school teacher in his native Nebraska in 1929, staying for two years. He

Jitney-Truck Crash Injures 2 In Westlake

Two persons were badly injured Friday afternoon in Westlake when a jitney bus collided with a two-ton truck at the Crestwood-Bel Mar intersection.

The mishap occurred at 4:55 p.m. when the empty northbound jitney, driven by Lloyd Lockrem, 50, rammed into the eastbound truck on Bel Mar, driven by teamster George Stratos, 27.

Impact caused the truck to plow over the curb, strike down a pedestrian Fernando Rivas, 16, a high school student, and thud against the front porch at 194 Bel Mar. The jitney rolled wildly, vaulted the curb and came to a halt against a residence at 174 Bel Mar.

Doctors at St. Francis hospital said Lockrem was in serious condition, suffering a con-

BOCCI TO RESIGN MUNI COURT POST

Municipal Judge Thomas L. Bocci Jr. of Colma today announced he is resigning Monday from the South San Francisco bench — presumably to enter the race for district attorney of San Mateo county.

Although the 34-year-old jurist denies he is a candidate for Keith Sorenson's post, his decision to quit as muni judge came as no surprise to political sources.

"The most decisive factor in my decision has been the welfare of my family," said Bocci, "and although it had been my original intention to run for re-election to this office, I have determined that I can best serve my family and friends by returning to private life.'

He continued, "As to my reported candidacy for the office of district attorney, let it be noted that I have not at any time fostered any such rumors or reports. However, on the basis of this recent publicity, I have been solicited by a great many people and groups, particularly from the southern and central areas of the county to declare for this office."

Bocci qualified, "If I find that sufficient interest in my candidacy is generated—and support is forthcoming—then yes, I could easily be encouraged to declare myself a candidate."

"My position at this time is not, however, to be interpreted as a declaration of candidacy for any office, as my principal intent is to return to private law practice."

JUDGE BOCCI
. . . To Resign Post

Bocci said he would make a decision by February 24 on running for district attorney.

A veteran of eight years in public office, starting as a justice of the peace, Bocci last year was a contender for a superior court appointment. Former City Attorney Frank Blum however, was awarded the position.

Rumored as interested in Bocci's municipal court job is City Attorney Paul Hupf.

THE 'REGIME' IS AT STAKE

Careers of three city councilmen and the jittery status of City Manager Howard Stites' regime hang in the political balance next Monday night when the council majority's "sneaked through" sales tax comes up for adoption.

Failing to give the public a new opportunity to squelch the one-cent levy, the 3-2 council verdict last week paved the way for mass protest and rumors for "recall."

Nearly a year ago—citizens, civic and business leaders, joining the Committee Opposed To Sales Tax, gave the council the "word" on sales tax. The matter was dropped with firmness as a dead issue.

But last week proved convenient for "city father" Stites and his supporters. Without prior notification to the press and public, and with maximum dispatch, the majority pushed through their coup de grace.

The vague "promises" aired by the three pro-tax councilmen on distribution of the "anticipated" $264,000 per year revenue the levy would bring are in keeping with the city manager's policy of lulling the public.

Fifty-percent of sales tax proceeds each year, they proclaim, would go into capital outlay, the rest "to reduce the property tax here to the fullest extent possible."

The latter is one of the most meaningless "guarantees" we've come across. Veiled in such indefinite terminology, it merely means that the reduction of property taxes could be sidestepped to pad the city manager's top-heavy regime come budget time.

A lump $132,000 each year from sales tax for "reducing property taxes" so easily can be "shifted" to other brackets—by direction of Stites.

And how about a system of collections for this sales tax? Do the council majority and manager have a system in mind? Are they willing to put all the cards on the table before the public? Or do underlying motives prohibit them from giving the people a chance to decide.

The time is now for the public to take the next step—unless sales tax is junked, as it should be. But we doubt if the Stites' regime will make this concession—as long as it is allowed to dictate instead of carry out the wishes of the public.

Next Monday night at city hall the vox populi will be heard.

Challenge Council On Levy 'OK'

Daly City Chamber of Commerce today delegated two directors to carry its anti-sales tax protest to the city council Monday night—when the "railroaded through" issue comes up for final adoption.

Secretary-manager Peter Markovich said directors Vince Murphy and U. R. Kendree will demand from the council a "postponement and clarification" on the tax move.

The chamber loudly challenges the council's intentions on the "division" of the reported $264,000 annual revenue the levy would bring to the city.

Councilman Del Wilson, who "fathered" the surprise sales tax motion last week, backed by Mayor Joseph Verducci and Francis Pacelli, said that one-half the funds raised by the tax would go into the capital outlay fund, the rest going to reduce the real property tax.

The chamber, according to Markovich, sides in with Councilman Micheal De Bernardi and Sanford Vickers, who feel the council majority's "promise" to reduce the property tax is "vague" and offers no guarantee the money won't be sidetracked to the general fund to pad the city manager's administrative staff.

"We don't question the pledge of 50 per cent for the capital outlay fund," said Markovich. "But how do we know we won't get fooled on the remaining 50 per cent, which is supposed to go to reduce property taxes. The council's announced split of the tax gives us no guarantee any of the money will go towards reducing property taxes."

Unless Wilson, Verducci and Pacelli reverse their stand Monday night, the sales tax would be put into effect on March 14.

DeBernardi's motion to put the issue to a vote of the people also failed by 3-2 vote.

In contrast to the near-empty chamber last week, the council will greet a full audience Monday — majority of whom will be there to protest the special levy.

SUGGEST SF ROUTE

City Protests State Freeway Alternates

Daly City today petitioned the Division of Highways to junk plans for two proposed access freeways to Skyline boulevard and instead to consider routing a single freeway across Lake Merced in San Francisco.

The state's alternate routes, strongly opposed by the council last week, would intersect the city east-west or north-south, meaning destruction of about 10 blocks of homes in Westlake between Skyline and Junipero Serra, or wiping out more than $1 million in business firms along Junipero Serra near St. Francis Heights subdivision.

The city's petition, sent to Sacramento, stated:

"We appreciate the necessity of carrying the north and south travel between SF and the Peninsula through Daly City, but we cannot approve either of the routes proposed for an inter-change of traffic between Junipero Serra and Skyline. These routes are not required by Daly City today, nor will they be necessary in the future."

It continued, "These routes are designed primarily to facilitate the movement of traffic between the coastal area and San Francisco."

The council advised the state that "there is a natural and effective route within SF which would not require the destruction of a single dwelling, nor does it appear that any unnecessarily difficult engineering problems would arise from the selection of such a route."

The city's suggested route would intersect with Skyline north of the Olympic Club and south of the Rod and Gun Club after running from Alemany and Stanley avenue down Stanley avenue and across Lake Merced. A dirt fill or bridge across Lake Merced would make this route possible.

WIA Firmly Against State's Alemany Plans

On motion of outgoing director Ed Murphy, Westlake Improvement Association Monday night went on record "to oppose any freeway on the Alemany boulevard extension."

The move answered the state's freshly announced plans for two alternate freeways. One of these routes would hack about $1 million in commercial property from the city's tax

TAX GROUP CALLS MEET IN WESTLAKE

A public meeting has been scheduled by the Taxpayers Protective Association for this Thursday night at 95 South Mayfair avenue beginning at 8 p.m. and all interested taxpayers are urged to attend.

Alarmed at Daly City tax increases which in some cases amount to as much at 42 per cent in one year, spokesmen pointed to individual cases in which tax increases have been responsible for monthly home payments being raised as much as $10 per month.

Further tax increases, with attendant raising of monthly home payments, are in prospect for next year, as a result of a re-appraisal of Westlake property values.

The Taxpayers' group also plans to discuss the city's intention of imposing a one per cent city sales tax, scheduled to be put into effect in about 60 days. The city council, in a surprise move last week, in-

Mothers' March Brings $3428 To Fight Polio

The annual Mothers' March On Polio in DC-Colma Friday night brought $3428.30 to the nationwide campaign.

Mrs. Sanford Vickers, DC-Colma chairman, said the total was considerably below last year's donations. She said Friday evening was perhaps a bad time for the door-to-door solicitations.

Superior Court Sessions Start In SSF Next Week

Superior court sessions, half-day affairs the second and fourth Fridays of each month, will begin on February 14 in South San Francisco.

Presiding at this branch court the first six months will be Superior Judge Frank Blum, former city attorney for Daly City and a resident here.

Only civil cases will be scheduled and only those that arise in the northern judicial district.

The branch of the superior court has been authorized on an "experimental" basis. Volume of cases will determine whether a permanent superior court in north San Mateo county is justified.

GAS STATION owner Joe Lewkowitz presents a $57.45 check to DC-Colma polio drive chairman Mrs. Sanford Vickers, representing his profits from a special day for the March of Dimes. The annual Mothers' March here Friday night brought $3428—much below the donation last year. But every little bit helps.

Council Candidates Eye Deadline

With only a week to go before the deadline for filing (noon February 13), only one hat was officially in the ring at press time today for the April 8 city council election.

Incumbent Del Wilson is the only candidate who has returned his nomination papers. Among those who have taken out papers and who are expected to file in the anticipated last-minute rush are:

Incumbents Micheal DeBernardi and Sanford Vickers, Fred Bertetta, of Westlake, a former councilman and school trustee; Edward Murphy, Westlake realtor and WSIA director, and Joseph Lewkowitz, gas station owner and elementary school trustee.

A few more individuals have taken out papers, but City Clerk Evelyn Mosman does not know the identity of these candidates.

Deadline for unregistered residents to register is also February 13. The 10 deputy registrars will be on duty all day.

Mrs. Mosman reports that as of December 31, the city had 14,238 registered voters. Fifty-five per cent of the 10,500 registered voters went to the polls in the last council election in 1956.

rolls. The second would erase most of the homes on North Mayfair.

Directors also authorized a letter to the state to expedite traffic signals at the Westmoor and Westridge intersections at Skyline, specifying that they still want an underpass at Westmoor—as well as the signals. Both the state and city have okayed the signals.

The WIA, hearnig protests from Fairway drive residents Monday night, agreed to meet with these people soon to discuss the proposed White street "link" from Broadmoor to Westlake. The Fairway folks believe their street will be flooded with too much traffic once the "link" is completed. The association is in favor of the county extension plan, provided motorists will be denied right-hand-turn access to Fairway.

Murphy, in his third year on the WIA board, tendered his letter of resignation Monday night because he is running for city councilman. Replacement for the realtor, who lives at 398 Northgate, will be made by directors at their next executive meeting.

Absent from Monday's meeting were directors William Silver and chairman Cass Norton. The latter is recovering from a heart ailment. He's expected back on the job this spring.

44 EX-JESD TEACHERS ANSWER CITIZENS' POLL ON 'TURNOVER'

Forty-four of 70 teachers polled who resigned from Jefferson Elementary School district in 1956 and 1957 answered questionnaires sent by the local Citizens Committee For Better Schools.

Larry Frieberg, committee chairman, presented a summary report on the questionnaire to trustees last Wednesday night. The board has forwarded the report to its Teacher Relations Committee for further evaluation.

High Turnover

The questionnaires were drafted by the Citizens Committee with the aid of professional advice, to determine the causes of the high teacher turnover here.

"Our aim in this project," said Freiberg, "is to isolate the problem, not to solve it. This report does not indict any one person or aspect of the school district, but it merely brings to light the issues needing attention, and presents the facts on how former teachers rate our district."

The report shows that the majority of the 44 ex-teachers here resigned for personal reasons—with pregnancy and transfer of their husbands the most common factors.

Only a few of the responding teachers said they quit because of dissatisfaction with administrative policies, working conditions or relationships.

Only two of the 44 teachers, 90 per cent of whom were women, were asked to resign from the district. About 30 per cent of the teachers who replied had one year or less of teaching background when hired by the district. Over 50 per cent had two years or less experience in the field.

'Moving' Pattern

There was also a large group of experienced teachers hired whose history showed a pattern of moving from district to district.

The questionnaires asked the teachers to rate the district as a place to work. They were thus asked to check 23 categories of conditions, each to be rated from "excellent" to "very poor."

There were three categories where the largest number of answers were "excellent." These were "degree of freedom to teach," "continued assistance from the principal," and "assistance from other teachers."

Freiberg explained that the "modal" rating for most of the remaining categories was "good." However, the report showed that "in service training programs," "library facilities," "school faculty morale," "class size," "community attitude towards schools," and "child behavior" were evaluated by the majority of teachers as only "fair," and a high percentage rated these factors as "poor" or "very poor."

Heavy Workload

Asked to list their suggestions to help reduce teacher turnover, the former JESD faculty members mainly advised reducing the teacher workload. Examples of excessive workload most frequently mentioned were size of classes, overly burdensome clerical and yard duties.

The next largest group of recommendations from the teachers suggested changes in the district's administrative policies—a significant number of these commenting on relationships with principals, problems of teacher "morale" and the teaching "climate," and frequent transfers within the district. A few suggestions were given on discipline, curriculum, teaching materials and school libraries.

Twenty per cent of the teachers noted that they liked the district and enjoyed their teaching experiences here.

Freiberg said that from the report that additional study is warranted on the high teacher turnover, and perhaps a revision of the district's hiring policy should be investigated.

Pose Questions

The Citizens Committee summarized their presentation by posing the following questions:

1. Why preference in hiring has been given to personnel whose background or family status would indicate a high possibility of transiency?
2. Is the ratio of men to women in line with the best elementary school practices?
3. Is the need for keeping costs down being given priority over recruitment of a stable teaching force?
4. Is the salary schedule and the policies under which it is administered adequate to support further improvements in the stability and competence in the teaching staff?
5. Does the policy of frequently shifting teachers from school to school contribute to teacher turnover and poor morale?
6. Is the district's recruitment program adequate to meet the existing sharp competition for good teachers?

The Citizens Committee's report also cited the need for review of the relationship between the district office and the teaching staff in such matters as the development of an in-service training program, and evolution of personnel practices designed to raise the level of teacher morale.

The report also listed some evidence reporting "serious tensions between some teachers and principals in some schools.

"4. Leave of absence provisions.

"5. Legal policy shields for the superintendent when he performs his duty of protecting staff members from pressure groups. Education is a search for truth, and it cannot be cribbed, cabined, and confined.

wouldn't have done any good. After all, we are the ones supposedly making the decisions."

Move towards the superintendent's ouster took concrete shape last June when the board called in the Stanford University research group to determine "what was hindering the district's program."

After several meetings with trustees and studying the district's problems, the agency recommended that the board give the superintendent a "trial period," to determine if Weibel would adhere more closely to the board's requests on many matters.

Appleton today recalled, "the superintendent did not satisfy our needs during this time." One specific factor was his failure to give the board in writing his interpretation of district policy, Appleton said.

"When we first asked for this report, the superintendent balked at the idea, saying it was the board's obligation to formulate policy," continued the chairman.

"We have felt otherwise," he went on, "and this gap in sharing responsibilities was making our duties as trustees ineffective. For the good of the district, therefore, we feel a change in administrators was the only answer."

Appleton reiterated that the trustees "regretted" having to terminate Weibel's duties here, "but we have expected a lot more from the administration than we have received."

"This does not involve personalities," he added. "There are no personal quarrels involved. Mr. Weibel has done much during his long stay here. Certainly we are in sympathy with his problems as chief administrator. But the time has come for a change, which we feel will help to alleviate many of our problems."

Appleton indicated that should the superintendent take another position before his new contract expires in 1959," the district would be able to get along adequately until a successor is named." This was the opinion last year of the Stanford group.

Same Pay

Weibel's one-year contract will involve continuance of his $14,500 salary. Assistant superintendents Dr. David Shapiro, district business manager, and Dr. Vinton Stratton, director of instruction, each are under contract for $14,000 a year.

Appleton rejected the suggestion the board already has a successor in mind. "We will begin a search for a replacement as soon as we are legally able to do so," he remarked.

New Delay Seen On $267,000 Loan For JESD

A new delay faced Jefferson Elementary school trustees today when they learned that they would have to again wait for a hearing before the State Allocations Board on the $267,000 M. Pauline Brown school loan.

Supt. H. Z. Weibel told trustees Wednesday night that instead of the previously announced February 19 meet in Sacramento, the State board had met this Wednesday. The Daly City loan was not on the agenda.

Weibel said he had no idea when the board would meet again.

Senator Richard Dolwig and Dick Lyon, attorney for the Schenone family, who are fighting the district's taking their land for part of the 10-acre site, are expected to continue their protest and to present alternate recommendations at the next Allocations Board session.

then took over as an elementary school principal in Auburn, Nebraska, an eight-year experience. Next he accepted duties of superintendent of the Johnson, Nebraska, Unified School District, remaining there three years. He then went to Grand Island, Nebraska, for two years as elementary school principal, followed by eight years as assistant superintendent of the Park Ridge, Illinois, elementary district, and then to Taft, California, where he spent three years as assistant superintendent and director of instruction.

"This is the first time in my career I've ever been asked to resign," he reflected.

The superintendent and his wife, Inez, a school teacher, are the parents of three children. Dale and Carol attend Westmoor High school. The oldest, Dean, is an ensign in the Navy. The family reside at 1712 Louvaine drive, Broadmoor.

FIVE California crew members of the ice-breaker USS Atka stand by a signpost in Antarctica. They include (kneeling center) Gary J. Burkholder, electrician's mate third class, son of Mrs. J. Tibbs, of 30 DeLong street, Daly City, and H. J. Burkholder, 161 Leavenworth street, San Francisco. The Atka is a unit of Rear Admiral George Dufek's Task Force 43, which is engaged in the resupply of the seven U. S. bases in the Antarctic. The ship left Seattle, Washington, on October 25 and is expected to return there later this spring.

The Town Record

By Roy Hurlbert

Police and parochial officials have bats in their belfry? Isn't true. But an old white owl had both parties amused last week when he set up headquarters in the OLPH school bell tower. The pigeons who roost there are ready to unionize and to get the gent out. Hoot, man, hoot!

Sensational "revival" of a "dead" man in SF this week was truly a tribute to the men in medicine. Did you notice—the doc who pulled the victim through was SANFORD MARCUS. He's the Westlaker who made headlines a few years back when his baby was kidnaped.

More-gals-in-politics department: VICKI TOMASI was swept into office as new student president at Jeff High. The veep, secretary and treasurer also were females. Don't worry gents, this is a national trend. One day MARJORIE MAIN may be in the White House.

Comment on editorial (from long-time reader): "We can't agree these political races resemble horse races. Many a time we felt we had a winner, only to find said winner was lined up wit hthe gravy gang. Everyone can't afford to play both tickets." Signed: AN OLD TIME BOOKIE.

Everyone is aware of the critical need for school teachers in communities throughout the land. Superintendents also are getting scarce. But in South City, where feuding caused JIM CHERRY to lose his job, some 26 applications for the vacancy are being considered.

Colorful 'Bill' McCarthy Dies In SF, 80 Years

William H. "Bill" McCarthy, a familiar name to Daly City residents and former San Francisco postmaster, fire commissioner and Pacific Coast League president, died Tuesday in St. Luke's hospital. He was 80.

A native of SF, McCarthy was one of the city's most popular political and sports personalities.

Turning point in his versatile career came in 1933, when as vice chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, he was appointed postmaster under the Roosevelt administration. He retired ten years ago.

McCarthy was a widower. His wife, the former Retta Haynes, died last September.

Rosary was recited Wednesday night at Halsted's chapel, 1123 Sutter street. Requiem high mass will be offered this Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Vincent de Paul church, Green street at Steiner. Interment will be at Holy Cross cemetery.

Shell color of eggs may vary from white to deep brown and is a breed characteristic.

DC HOUSEWIFE DRIVES AS RED CROSS VOLUNTEER

Daly City's Mrs. E. Bramston, 100 East Moltke, is among the 106 volunteer Motor Service drivers for San Francisco Red Cross, which early this month passed the big milestone of driving its one-mililonth passenger.

Mrs. Raymond J. Brandt is newly appointed chairman of the Motor Service. A pert and pretty grandmother, she has already racked up 3566 hours of volunteer service to Red Cross. "And it's taking about 30 hours weekly to be chairman," she says.

Mrs. Brandt said eye-bank calls get priority over all other Red Cross errands of mercy nowadays. Within a two-hour limit from the time the request is received, two drivers must meet the plane bringing in a specially packaged live cornea and deliver it uninjured to the hospital where patient and surgeon await its immediate use. Meantime, Red Cross regularly carries on its long established schedule of driving post-polio patients for treatments at Morrison Rehabilitation Center and medical centers; taking underprivileged and handicapped children for medical treatments, special lessons or recreational activities; serving senior citizens of Laguna Honda and like homes who are unable to use public transportation; transporting personnel and equipment of canteen, Gray Lady, Disaster, Junior Red Cross and other Red Cross services as they go about their necessary chores.

Mrs. Brandt has issued an invitation to anyone interested in volunteering for Motor Service to call her at PR 6-1500 for complete information.

Coast Woman Unhurt Though Auto Flips

A Pedro Valley waitress barely escaped serious injury Thursday night when she lost control of her southbound car and it overturned after hitting a soft shoulder on Coast Highway, two miles south of Skyline.

When Officer Richard DeLosa got to the scene the auto was on its side at the left bank of the road. The victim, Clara E. Barrett, 28, of 1290 Hermosa avenue, shakily reported later to police that a passing motorist took her home. She did not require emergency treatment, according to the report.

PG&E Spokesman Guest Of Riordan Guild Next Week

William A. Hynes, manager of the Public Activities Division of P.G.&E., will be guest speaker. His topic will be "Why Parents Must Read."

A publicity report will be given by Mrs. Bernard Lycett, publicity chariman.

Riordan Guild's "Our Lady of the Pillar Study Club" will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday evening, February 20, at 8 o'clock, in room 107. Father Leonard Thome, S.M., will continue his instruction on the "Catholic Eastern Rite."

Ram Tales

Our new glass-enclosed schoolhouse was formally dedicated January 12, with an attendance of around 1200 people. The program opened with selected band numbers, followed by Mr. Fontana, who dedicated the school in behalf of the Jefferson Union High school district. Concluding the program was singing by the school choral group, followed by open house. The dedication was a great success, and widely publicized.

Everyone crowed around the window last week trying to get a peak at the new scale model of Westmoor, recently put on display in the main office. Not only does the model include the present buildings, but future buildings such as a circular auditorium and swimming pool which will be made up of glass and large oblong shapes. Westmoor is considered one of America's most beautiful schools.

Student Play

The production of Henry Aldrich has been scheduled for February 5 an 6. On February 4, there will be a special matinee for students, 25 cents with SB card and 50 cents without. Night performance will be 50 cents with SB card and 75 cents without, and $1 for adults.

Westmoor's first Senior class will graduate in green caps and gowns—that is ,for the boys. The girls will be wearing white collars and white tassels from their caps. There will be a few students graduating during midterm. They have two choices: One is to graduate without services, or be in the graduating exercises in June. Those graduating in February are Mike Calvello, Bob Gregory, Bolivar Gamez, Bernadette Kostevich, Lynn Serfas, and Marcia Serfas. They may also take part in future senior activities.

Westmoorians nearly had heart failure at our last basketball game against San Mateo. The last few seconds of the game were tense ones with both schools tied, but we won by a score of 34-33.

Westmoor's gym is now publicly opened every Tuesday and Thursday nights. SB card holders from Westmoor are admitted for 10 cents, all others for 25 cents.

Strictly For Veterans

By Grace Hill

Education is coming in for a lot of attention these days, especially in the scientific and technological fields in which the question has been raised as to whether we are keeping up with Soviet Russia.

Taking note of the re-emphasis on higher education, in which stress is also being laid on the importance of continued advancement in the humanities and arts, veterans are reminded of the educational opportunities which are theirs.

The educational assistance program administered by the State Department of Veterans Affairs, in courses approved by the State Department of Education, offers to California veterans up to $1000 in financial help in schooling. The $1000 is expended at a rate which best suits the veteran's needs and the length of his educational program. Tuition and fees are paid for part-time training, and a full-time day student may receive a monthly allowance as well.

One Restriction

One restriction is that the veteran must not also be receiving federal educational benefits. Another is that he must show an ability and need for the course requested.

World War II and Korea veterans are eligible for state educational assistance. The veteran must have served at least 90 days during either conflict, unless discharged sooner due to a service-connected disability.

Interested veterans are urged to call at the office of the County Service Officer in Redwood City to establish their eligibility as California veterans for this and other benefits, and to file a separate application for educational assistance. The proper forms are available in his office.

Widows and children of veterans who died as a result of war service also are eligible for educational assistance under another state program.

Unit Activities

The annual Oratorical Contest of the American Legion will be held in the Redwood City Legion Hall, Friday evening, February 7, under supervision of the Americanism Committee of the 26th District. All members and friends are invited

American War Mothers met Tuesday evening, February 4, and made plans to continue their ward parties at Ft. Miley hospital.

Daly City Unit 410, American Legion Auxiliary, will meet Wednesday evening, February 5. Americanism month is being observed throughout the department with special programs. Anne Welch is chairman for the Daly City unit.

The 12th District of the VFW will meet Sunday, February 9, in Spreckels. Attending from Lake Merced Auxiliary 9921, will be Mesdames Fisher, Dunn and Eggleton. Old Glory Auxiliary 2044, will be represented by Mesdames Correll, Poket, Johnston, Brulez and Dorn.

Two For Tonight

By Lenore Brewer

There's always the book you let go by, figuring the films will buy it and after they have predigested it for you, what might have taken three hours to read can be absorbed in 90 minutes. Such is Francoise Sagan's "Bonjour Tristesse" currently at the St. Francis.

It is a beautifully constructed vignette of a group of people on the Riviera, living a life that is as remote from the casual filmgoer as though it were happening on a world swinging around Arcturus.

Told in a series of flashbacks, it pictures a French father (David Niven) and his teen-age daughter (Jean Seberg) sharing their carefree amoral life with a series of the father's mistresses. You meet only one (Mylene Demongeot) the latest but clearly not to be the last.

Off-beat Menage

It is a pleasing if slightly unconventional family pattern, with each going his own way. Jean has the complete freedom of expression and utter lack of restraint which teenagers pant for, and it's obvious that breakfast conversations devoted to father's prowess with women will not long be a one-way street.

But there's always someone to take the joy out of life, and into this off-beat menage comes Deborah Kerr, a woman who "cannot be casual about these things." She and Niven decide to marry and when Deborah stretches out a restraining hand, Jean sees that the old carefree days are going fast, and devises an intricate way of removing Deborah and restoring the status quo.

Jean Seberg is seen to much better advantage than in Shaw's "St. Joan;" Deborah Kerr etches a delicate performance as a woman no longer young and Niven is an irresponsible charmer.

Technical Brilliance

The handling of the flashbacks is an artistic delight. A strangely toned black and white is used for the present and the past is in brilliant technicolor. The main title is a masterpiece, with slow tears falling down the screen from a broadly sketched human face.

There is nothing morbid or salacious about "Bonjour." As a film it is technically brilliant; its characters are like shadows seen in an antique mirror, and as for the plot, had it been written by someone forty years old, it would have left you unruffled and serene.

What makes it a chilly little item is that it was written by an 18-year-old girl. Sort of shakes the American ideal of the untouched virginal dreams of the young, doesn't it?

Baby Shower Fetes Mrs. Patricia Yates

Mrs. Patricia Yates recently was feted at a baby shower, given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dolores Yates, at 568 Bellevue avenue.

Among those present were the grandmothers-to-be, Mrs. Maxina Grim and Mrs. Rita Yates, and a sister-in-law, Barbara Gardner.

Westlake Auto Show Regarded Best-Ever

The second annual Westlake Auto Show promises to put last year's edition to shame, according to an announcement yesterday by Les Ritchie, president of the Westlake Business and Professional association, sponsors of the venet.

At the present time, over 150 American and European cars are to be displayed throughout the huge 66-store shopping center in Daly City, Ritchie stated. American production cars, from the newest Cadillac to the 1958 Rambler, will be shown throughout Westlake Court, while the imported cars are to be stationed in the various stores. Glamorous 1958 models of the American production cars, from new convertibles through sedans, will be shown in all their gleaming appeal, according to the dealers who are to display cars.

In addition to the automobiles, several displays of the newest fad, quarter midgets, will be shown in different sections of the Westlake Shopping Center. Smallest production cars made, the midget racers are the rage with the junior set. Powered by gasoline engines, they reach a top speed of nearly 25 miles per hour. Several racing ovals have been constructed in the Bay area for the racing of the small cars by children in the four to 14 age group.

The show, opening this Wednesday, February 5, will run through Saturday, February 8, Ritchie stated. No admission charge is made for any part of the show, he emphasized.

PROCLAMATION

In recognition of the vital contribution of electricity and the electrical industry to the economic and social well-being of this community, I hereby proclaim the week of February 9-15 as Electrical Week in Daly City.

Our observance here will be a part of National Electrical Week, set aside annually by the great electrical industry of the United States to honor the memory of the genius who fathered it, Thomas Alva Edison. February 11 will mark the 111th anniversary of the birth of this justly-famous American.

In proclaiming Electrical Week, I call attention to the importance of the services performed by electricity in the homes and industries and on the farms of our people. I also emphasize most strongly the responsibility of parents, educators and civic officials to encourage youth of scientific bent to emulate the example of Thomas Edison, so that the continued industrial and technological progress of this nation will be assured.

No part of the nation's activities are more important to the vigor of our scientific advancement in this day of atomics and electronics than our indispensable electric industry. I have therefore signed and had affixed to this Electrical Week proclamation the seal of the city of Daly City.

Warren McCausland Named Speaker For Eagle Scout Recognition Fete

Eagle Scout Warren McCausland, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McCausland, 2574 19th avenue, and a member of Explorer Post 143 in the Lake Merced Scout District, has been chosen as boy speaker at the annual Eagle Scout Recognition Dinner to be held in the Peacock Court of the Hotel Mark Hopkins on February 11.

More than 60 San Francisco Scouts from all parts of the city who have attained the coveted rank of Eagle during the past year will be guests of honor at the dinner. Each Scout attending the affair is sponsored by a prominent business or professional man who has attained success in the field of interest the boy expects to follow for his career.

The banquet is given in recognition of the achievement of these young men in meeting the requirements for the Eagle rank which is given for attaining 21 merit badges and having an outstanding record in Scouting, school, church and the community.

Warren has been active in the Scouting organization for the past six years. He has held various positions of leadership and has participated in many weekend camping trips, summer Scout camp and a Crescent "M" pack trip to the High Sierras.

A senior at Riordan High School, he is on the yearbook staff and a member of School Sodality.

Public schools, business and industry, city government, service clubs and many other community groups will support the safety program of the Boy Scouts and pay tribute to the Scouting movement which was founded in this country in 1910 and now has a national membership of 4,700,000 boys and adult volunteers.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL

School Kids Present Unique 'Rock Fair'

Wednesday afternoon last week students at Jeferson elementary school presented a "Rock Fair," the first of a series of science assemblies to a capacity audience of fellow students, faculty, parents and administrative personnel.

The exhibition and presentation featured rocks of all sizes, detailing their history, location and value.

Principal Marie Traynor, much enthused by the favorable reaction the assembly produced from those attending, said the object of the science assemblies "is to expose students to specific areas of science, improve science education and to stimulate greater interest in this challenging field."

Following students participated in the program: Pamela Serino, announcer; Richard Peeler, introduction and welcome; Carol Kay, hobby of rock collecting; Stephen Drago and Bruce Popejoy, color slides on rocks and minerals; Mary Jean Marchetti, igneous rocks; Paul Tims, sedimentary rocks; Joan Esbensen, metamorphic rocks, and Diane Puccini, reporting on the stone logs of Arizona.

"Operation Volcano," a highlight of the program, was introduced by Linda Ballati, with Charles Warren narrating and Kenneth Iwahashi showing lantern slides of a volcano. This was climaxed by a volcanic "eruption," complete with sparks, smoke and lava flow, the volcano having been made by fifth graders. Judy Silvestri served as student recorder for the question period which followed the program.

In connection with the Rock Fair was an elaborate display of rocks and minerals, exhibited by students, faculty and parents.

Representing the primary grades were hostesses, Madelyn Martinelli, Lynn Sanbraillo and Renee LeBoeuf.

FILM ON BEHAVIOR

Hillside PTAers View 'Farewell To Childhood'

The unit meeting of the Hillside PTA on January 15, held in the multi-purpose room of Colma school, featured a film entitled "Farewell to Childhood." It concerned the difficulties children have emotionally when entering their teens. The movie was followed by a discussion between parents and a panel of seventh and eighth grade students in which each side expressed views about the behavior of children at this difficult and confusing time in their lives.

Introduced by Mrs. Arthur Huelse, president, were the new officers. They are: Mrs. George Hillman, treasurer; Mrs. Del Wilson, recording secretary, and Mrs. David Barulich, outside publicity chairman.

A nominating committee was appointed to select new officers for the coming year. The chairman, Mrs. Joseph Doyle, was assisted by Mrs. Gene Snow, Mrs. Wm. Swartzfager, Mrs. Don Lasher, and Mrs. Barulich. Attendants were Mrs. Joe Baldaseri and Mrs. Richard Chauvin.

THOUGHT-PROVOKING

Jefferson High Cast Stimulates W-Wilson PTA Meet On 'Problems'

"Parents Can Be Problems." This was the title of the thought-provoking play presented by the Jefferson High Players at the January 21 meeting of Woodrow Wilson PTA.

Under the direction of Miss Eunice Seaton, the players—Linda Cole, Charlene Nelson and Bill Videver, enacted a socioguide playlet designed to stimulate discussion of social problems. The audience then participated in an effort to find a solution to the "problem."

Also on the program, "Action For Happier Living," was Richard Barnett representing KQED, the educational TV channel. Barnett explained the the aims and objectives of KQED. He pointed out that Channel 9 strives for a variety of programs such as children's shows, public and cultural affairs, telecourses and great teachers in certain fields. Experiments on the college level are being carried on locally by San Francisco State College and the Ford Foundation to determine whether students can learn and retain knowledge as well from TV as from a classroom teacher.

Earlier in the meeting, Mrs. F. Cunningham, delegate of the Jefferson District's PTA Coordinating Committee, spoke on the forthcoming performances of "Pinocchio" at Jefferson High on February 8. Proceeds are used for the welfare fund to furnish glasses and dental care to needy children in the district.

The resignation of Mrs. T. Tromborg as historian was accepted with regret. Mrs. John Walsh was appointed to fill out the term of office.

Mrs. R. Montalvo, neighborhood chairman of the Mothers' March of Dimes, welcomed additional volunteers. The an-March Against Polio" was held Friday from 7 to 8 p.m.

A nominating committee was chosen to select a slate of officers for the PTA next year. Serving on the committee will be Mrs. L. Meany, Mrs. J. Walsh, Mrs. M. Plansky, Mrs. A. Giammona, and Mrs. A. Hermosillo. Voting for new officers will be in March.

Fort Ross was abandoned by the Russian American Company on Dec. 13, 1841 when its settlements there and at Bodega were sold to Capt. John A. Sutter.

China Missionary Will Speak At Vista Grande

Dr. Douglas S. Corpron, former medical missionary in China, will speak this Sunday at Vista Grande Avenue Christian church.

Sponsored by the United Christian Missionary Society, a national agency of the Christian churches, Dr. Corpron first went to China in the early 20's, establishing a hospital at Hopei, far in the interior. He was the only doctor for approximately two million people.

During his 25 years of missionary service, he and his family were forced to leave China on three different occasions.

During the Boxer Rebellions they barely escaped with their lives. Again, before World War II, he was forced to flee by increasing pressure from the Japanese army of occupation. Returning to their work after the war, Dr. and Mrs. Corpron were finally forced out by the Chinese Communists.

During his address, Dr. Corpron is expected to talk about his son, Dr. Douglas O. Corpron, who this summer will go to Thailand as a medical missionary.

Dr. Corpron will speak at both worship services, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and 10:55 a.m. Public is invited as usual, according to the Rev. J. Richard Friedline.

GEN. PERSHING STUDENTS ENJOY SCIENCE PROJECTS

Students at General Pershing school have had the opportunity for many experiences in the field of science. Some of these experiences include the study of plants, animals, electricity and planets.

A glance into Mrs. Sheila Grey's room reveals typical experiments. A sweet potato brought by Tommy Penn develops roots and vines in a jar of water. Lynn Samson's cocoon receives constant attention. Equally enjoyed are the guppies contributed by Sherrilyn Morrison. In Mrs. Griswold's room science helpers Tommy Salvador and Susan Sturdevant keep diligent watch over their classes' hamster. In kindergarten eager students prepare for their field trip to the aquarium through their study of marine life.

Mrs. Dorothy Malone's class constructed various weather instruments. They also watched a demonstration given by Allan White. Allan showed them how direct current can be utilized. This was done by connecting two wires from a bulb to a dry cell batetry.

Students in Miss Mary O'Rourke's class made a mural in which the planets were pictured around the sun. The following students made booklets on each planet: Linda Lam, Lois Bolinger, Beverly Poncia, Ronnie Hampton, Kimberly Bradley, Linda Rowe, and Linda Ruiz.

MAIN TARGET: CAP

Ryan Hits 23, Marc 20 In Runaway; Tribe Opens 'Stretch' Vs. Blingum

Winding up first round play Friday here with a 69-41 rout over South City, Jeff's varsity cagers enter the Peninsula League stretch drive this Friday night when they tangle with third-place Burlingame. The 30's open at 7:30 on the Panther court.

One notch behind unbeaten Capuchino, which got a scare last week from Hillsdale, the Indians have one big date in mind—February 18, when they play host to Cap in an afternoon battle. A win for Coach Mike Orlich's squad should decide the eventual crown winner via a playoff.

Burlingame and Hillsdale, though, also will be tough during the second half of league play, so Orlich has his fingers crossed. He does know that he has the material to win the title.

Center Dennis Marc took the PL scoring lead from Cap's John Condrin here Friday as the 6-5 Tribe center tanked 20 points. He had to leave the game at the end of the third quarter, nursing eye and mouth cuts.

Guard Gary Ryan took up the slack with a 23-point game effort, cementing his bid for all-league laurels.

South City was close at 15-13 the first period, but the racing Indians then stepped quickly and pulled far ahead. It was 33-21 at the half, and 58-31 with a quarter to go. Again, Orlich used his strong bench.

Jeff starters for Burlingam will be Gene Firth and Erni Howren at forwards, Marc the middle, and Ryan and Barrie Haanen at guards.

Steve Mezzera's Jeff lig weights evened their recor 3-3 with a walloping 43-27 in the preliminary. Ino Pa smallest man on the wood driving in like crazy, mited the young Warrior 16 points. Art Banos 10, and George Ojakian

After a poor start, dian 30's appear boun first division finish.

WESTMOOR DUELS S.S.F. FIVE FRIDAY

Westmoor's varsity cagers invade South City this Friday night to meet the unpredictable Warriors as second half play begins in the Peninsula League. First game tips off at 7:30 p.m.

Winners but once in six starts, Coach Tony Giammona's Rams again find themselves the underdog. South City is 3-3 and equipped with high scoring Fred Nebiolini and Steve Anderson.

The Rams' lack of height and experience have been their chief drawbacks. But Giammona's regulars are much improved and may surprise one or two remaining foes.

Starters for Westmoor are forwards Gary Twitty and Larry Harper, center Larry Schoenfeldt, and guards Ross Holmgren and Bill Dougherty. The latter pair have carried the scoring load.

The Ram 30's also are looking up. Their record is 1-5.

In football, Haanen played with the frosh, sat out a year, then performed at end last fall.

On the courts, he made honorable mention as a lightweight and the past two seasons has shone as a driving guard with high-scoring habits.

Ryan, a baby-faced kid, like his pal Barrie isn't a husky in the field of sports. But he gets the most out of his 5-10, 160-pound build, and all coaches admire his attitude.

Also 17, Gary was born in Brisbane, resides at 10 Lehning way, and has lived there most all of his life. He's interested in a coaching career, and his B grade average might pave a scholarship, athletic or otherwise.

Gary is a two-year vet in three varsity sports. He missed All-PAL first team football honors by a whisker last fall as an end, and played the outfield in baseball last campaign.

From Principal John Mongan on down to the bus driver who transports Haanen and Ryan and their playmates, the Brisbane boys are first class. Barrie and Gary are equally respected by their foes on the fields of friendly strife.

Like many Jeff athletes, they spread their talents in all sports. And they always play to win in the true tradition of fine young gentlemen. Which they are and always will be.
